WE NOMINATE

Robert M. Drake Jr., 41-year old engineering scientist and a Princetonian since 1916, who is shouldering major responsibilities in what educators and government spokesmen are describing as a "revolutionary approach" to American aid to the under-developed nations. The soft-spoken Drake, chairman of the division of mechanical engineering within Princeton University's School of Engineering, is one of the nine members of a steering committee charged with drafting the blueprints for the immediate development of an institute of technology in Kanpur, India—an institute for both teaching and research in engineering and science which has been warmly hailed by Indian Prime Minister Nehru.

The newly announced institute at Kanpur, a key stop a week ago for Princeton President Robert F. Goheen on his extended visit to universities and research centers in India and Japan, represents a new kind of partnership between the United States Government and higher education. With initial financial support, estimated at some $3,500,000, being provided by the U. S. Agency for International Development, nine cooperating institutions are pooling their talents and energies in establishing programs and planning facilities geared to basic Indian needs. The nine-campus project is officially known as "an educational consortium for the Kanpur Indo-American Program."

Last fall, as the initial step forward in an unusual cooperative arrangement that was evolved when it became apparent no single American University had the resources to carry out the United States commitment, Drake and his counterparts from other institutions spent some six weeks on the existing Kanpur campus. Out of their on-the-site survey and deliberations has emerged the comprehensive program which will carry high-level American professors to India, will bring Kanpur faculty members to this country for training, and will ultimately result in the development of a faculty of 250 for some 1,600 undergraduates and 400 graduate students.

Drake's preparation for his part in planning what one observer feels "could well become one of the world's great technological centers" includes three years with the Army Air Corps during World War II, an impressive record as a teacher and research scientist, and a pre-Princeton stint with the General Electric Company as a supervisor and design specialist for its Aircraft Gas Turbine Division. It was in the spring of 1956 that he was "tapped" by Princeton as Professor of Mechanical Engineering and a year later that he was named Chairman of the Department of Mechanical Engineering.

A native of Eagle Cliff, Georgia, and a member of the Class of 1942 at the University of Kentucky, who took his advanced degrees at the University of California, Drake gained his teaching experience at California, serving successively between 1947 and 1951 as instructor, assistant professor and associate professor. The recent Kanpur announcement marks the second time this year that Drake has made front-page Princeton news. Last October, as chairman of a long-working Faculty Committee, he made public the plans for the establishment of a new Computing Center, the "equivalent of a university library," in the University's nearly complete Engineering Quadrangle.

For his contributions to a venture which is considered a "guide-post to new patterns of academic assistance abroad"; for his conception of the American university's increasingly important role in world affairs; for his capacities for tailoring educational theory and planning to the essentials of the moment; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee as

TOWNSMEN ERUPT

Over Borough Planning. Suggestions from the public for their chosen representatives on the Borough Planning Board came thick and fast Monday evening at an open meeting held by the "Residents of Princeton" in the parish house of Trinity Church.

About 80 people, some of them loaded for bear, attended the session. They came from areas designated as sub-standard by Borough planners; there was also a sprinkling of Planning Board members, other Borough officials and Township residents.

The meeting was led by Mrs. David V. Erdman of 8 Madison Street, chairman of the newly-formed civic watchdog group, "Residents of Princeton." The "Residents" have in the past banded together informally to protest such proposals as public parking off Park Place, the location of a gas station at the corner of Nassau and Markham, and the construction of a savings and loan office on the property of historic Beatty House.

Time Loss. "There is a waste of time when plans for the Borough don't meet with public approval," Mrs. Erdman said at the onset. "We call ourselves a channel of communication between the public and the Planning Board, and we hope to achieve a saving of time."

Primed for protest, the audience was jolted into silence by Mrs. Erdman's announcement that the meeting would not cover specific complaints. There was not a cough or a creak while people digested this and weighed what was left of their reasons for coming.

There was a murmur of skepticism when Mrs. Erdman stated that, with the aid of questionnaires to be filled out by the audience, statisticians who were present, 20-minute workshops and ensuing summaries, she hoped that the audience would develop a "list of statements, hopes and proposals to be of use to the Planning Board" on the following evening at its special session.

"If You Ask Me . . ." This is exactly what the audience did, however. Swayed by the novelty of the Residents' somewhat scientific approach to protest, they formed haphazard, informal discussion groups out of which the sponsors gained a wealth of material mirroring the attitude of the townsmen present.

Analysis of the questionnaires by Robert Niles, a psychologist at Princeton University; and Robert Gutman, of 180 Jefferson, a sociologist from Rutgers, brought to light the conservatism of the group. Their strongest interest lay in the preservation of the small-town character of Princeton. Over half of the 49 valid questionnaires named this first. An equally clear aspect was their extreme lack of interest in the town's "expanding character, resulting in increasing land values and business opportunities," as the questionnaire put it.

The group discussions, or workshops, proved the most fruitful for the Residents. Out of them came the following suggestions, comments and attitudes:

- Zoning regulations should be rigid and well enforced, as a solution to the problem of "blighted" areas.
- A "grievance machinery" should be part of any Master Plan drawn by the Borough planners, to enable the townspeople properly to channel their protests.
- Planning should be done by "people who know Princeton, rather than by outsiders who are working solely from an idealistic point of view."
- "We are generally ignorant of what master plans are, or could be, and we are afraid of master plans as such."
- "We need better communication between the Planning Board and the public."
- The need for low-cost housing and reasonable rentals.
- The problem of displacement of owners when low cost housing is introduced, and the resulting influx of "new people" into an area.
- Citizens should be acquainted with the issue of consolidation in relation to the future of Princeton and the master plan for the community.
- Planning should be developed, not house by house or block by block, but zone by zone.
- No adoption of a master plan through public referendum. "Ninety percent of the plan might be good, but ten percent would have to be swallowed."
- "The disturbance of the University — how it acts and

Our Folly In Isolating
FRANCE

by A. N. SPANEL, Chairman
International Latex Corporation

The American people have watched with deep sympathy the long ordeal of the people of France, climaxed by the continuing bloodshed in Algeria. The traditional friendship between our two peoples is too genuine, too time-tested, to be affected by fluctuations in the climate of official relations between our countries.

It is no secret that the French Government has been more and more disenchanted with Washington. This is a matter of great concern to those of us who have been close observers of Franco-American relations. The time is ripe, we feel, for the United States to acknowledge —in deeds, not words—that France has been reborn as a nation of major rank, and that she can no longer be confined to a secondary role in the free-world coalition and in the Atlantic Community.

Concretely, this demands acceptance of France as a member of the so-called Nuclear Club, and her full participation in free-world policy decisions affecting French interests. Only in that way can the weight of the revitalized France be added to the over-all political, material and moral strength of the Western Alliance.

In both Asia and Africa, France has fought battles, at a devastating cost in blood and treasure, in which not only her own interests but those of the entire West were at stake. To appreciate the cumulative frustration visited upon the country by her major allies, one must review some key events in recent years:

1. In Indo-China, France fought against the local forces led by Moscow-trained Ho Chi Minh and the forces of Red China, without any significant help from the United States and Great Britain. The cruel price of that free-world failure is being paid today in Laos and Vietnam, both fragments of the former French Indo-China; before long it may have to be paid in Cambodia and the rest of Southeast Asia.

2. In the Suez crisis, in 1956, the United States intervened against the action taken by Britain and France in behalf of the whole free world. The principal beneficiary of that rash intervention, dictator Nasser, has been repaying the West by atrociously discriminating against its shipping interests, a great gain for Moscow!

3. Because French interests in the Middle East are large and compelling, both Washington and London had given assurances that France would be consulted in advance on all policy decisions during the Lebanon crisis in 1958. Yet France was demonstratively ignored by the Anglo-American governments before they acted.

4. In the grueling seven-year war in Algeria, France found neither understanding nor diplomatic help in Washington. On the contrary, she had to contend with ever mounting American moral support for the rebels.

5. Most important, because it reflected a false and deeply humiliating underestimation of the country, the United States has denied to France the kind of access to the reservoir of American nuclear technology that was wide-open to Great Britain. This illogical policy, which persists to this day, has given the ring of hypocrisy to our lip service to French equality in the grand coalition.

LOST FAITH

Any of these events and policies may be explained, or explained away; there is room for argument. But their total impact on the French people, during long years of tragedy and sacrifice, has been to erode faith in the free-world alliance. For all the talk of free-world unity against international communism, they felt increasingly, France must depend in the long-run on its own power and wisdom. Her exclusion from the nuclear elite has been a prime factor in this national sentiment.

As long ago as August 19, 1958, we warned in these columns that France "will continue to react sharply, to its own and the free world's peril, to every maneuver of disparagement or downgrading. And in this connection the atomic problem is crucial. . . . Nuclear energy for both peaceful and military uses has become the symbol and substance of strength in today's world. France has no alternative but to reach out for it."

Reach out for it France did, and successfully. Already she has exploded a number of atom bombs, without a single failure. By any test of reality, France now qualifies for admission to the Nuclear Club, even as defined under American laws that admitted Britain to full membership. Soviet Russia happens to be right in regarding France as a nuclear power, despite American assumptions to the contrary.

But while Britain was able to draw on American know-how and industrial production in the nuclear area, France has been forced to shoulder the immense burdens of duplicating what was already available in the United States. As we wrote in the past, "France will attain atomic vitality commensurate with her needs and her place in the hierarchy of nations. How much better that this be done with our generous cooperation!"

FOLLY UPON FOLLY

A current episode points up the absurdity as well as the injustice of the continued denial of nuclear equality to France. The French government is seeking to purchase in our country certain equipment related to the production of the delivery system for its atomic bombs. Neither nuclear nor atomic secrets are involved in these machines and machine tools. The American manufacturers are eager to fill the large orders which, incidentally, would be helpful to the United States in its balance of payments difficulties.

If Washington turns thumbs down on the purchases — apparently a decision is still pending — France may again be forced to erect her own factories to produce such equipment. She will be put to great expense and frustrating delay in achieving the nuclear force to which she is entitled and which she will attain eventually in any case.

In theory, American nuclear weapons are available to protect French interests against a common enemy. In light of the events summed up above, however, France can scarcely be blamed for refusing to stake its destiny wholly on the judgments of others.

The French people have been deeply hurt and saddened by the international ill winds blowing against them. Now they are torn in soul and flesh by the Algerian tragedy. Though the nation has made an all but miraculous economic recovery, its people are discontented. They feel that they have been crowded into a go-it-alone corner by the uncooperative policies of their main allies.

THE SENSE OF BELONGING

Unless this condition is rapidly cured, unless France becomes a full partner in the alliance, the French position may harden into a species of isolationism, with dire consequences both for herself and the free world. The ambiguity of the French role in NATO may lead to a complete alienation, again with disastrous results for the entire free world.

More than ever before, France needs a stabilizing sense of belonging to the Atlantic Community. More than ever before, the true unity of the free world must be confirmed and fortified. And the primary responsibility rests with Washington. We have no alternatives in logic, or in terms of rock-bottom self-interest, but to recognize that France, by its own efforts and despite American indifference, now ranks as a nuclear power.

We must face up to this reality with deeds which the French people cannot misunderstand. The immediate result would be a great lift to the morale not only of France but of the whole free-world coalition in this time of crowding communist challenge.

CALL-LETTERS WHWH

At 1350 On the Dial. The first AM radio station in Princeton will begin broadcasting early in September, using the call-letters WHWH (for Herbert Windsor Hobler, president of the Nassau Broadcasting Co.) Backed by 5000 watts, it will be found at 1350 kilocycles.

Permission to construct the station has been granted by the Federal Communications Commission, following protracted hearings and appeals in Washington that lasted more than three years. The studio, transmitter and office building will be started immediately, Mr. Hobler said, on land about four and a half miles northwest of Princeton. A small recording studio in central Princeton is also planned.

Mr. Hobler said that WHWH will offer several newscasts a day, educational and public service programs, athletic events staged by schools and colleges in the area, and popular and classical music. It will be on the air from 6 a.m. to midnight seven days a week.

Mr. Hobler, now sales manager of Videotape Productions of New York, will be general manager of the station. He has lived here since 1941.

Kenneth R. Wight, who has been in the audio recording business in Princeton for 12 years, will be the audio director. Other stockholders and directors are F. J. Worthington, manager of the Princeton University Store, the station's vice-president; Ralph S. Mason, attorney, secretary-treasurer of WHWH; Dr. Henry Abrams, opthamologist; Raymond Bowers, president of L. C. Bowers & Sons, builders; Fred M. Blaicher, president of Palmer Square, Inc.; and A. W. Hobler, New York advertising executive and Princeton dairy farmer.

BEHIND THE NEW VOICE: These four Princetonians will guide the town's new radio station: Kenneth R. Wight, audio director; F. J. Worthington, vice-president; Ralph S. Mason, secretary-treasurer; and Herbert W. Hobler, president.

SEMINARY OPENS FETE

For 150th Anniversary. The Sesquicentennial Celebration of Princeton Theological Seminary begins on Monday afternoon with a formal academic procession from the Seminary campus to historic First Presbyterian Church, followed at 4 p.m. with the opening convocation at the church.

The ceremonies will initiate a 14-month series of Sesquicentennial events including two major lecture programs, two Commencements, a series of academic conferences and a fine arts schedule.

Paul D. McKelvy of Los Angeles, Moderator of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. and Dr. H. Ganse Little, minister of the Pasadena, California Presbyterian Church, will be major participants in the convocation.

Four outstanding Church leaders will speak at the opening series of lectures, scheduled to begin Monday and to continue until May 4. During the first week speakers will be D. T. Niles, general secretary of the East Asia Christian Conference; James S. Stewart, professor of New Testament at the University of Edinburgh, and W. A. Visser 't Hooft, general secretary of the World Council of Churches.

Karl Barth of the University of Basel, one of the Twentieth Century's leading theologians, will give on Sunday, April 29, the first of his six lectures to be delivered nightly through May 4. The series will be delivered under the title "An Introduction to Evangelical Theology." After lecturing five evenings on this subject, he will open the programs to questions from the audience for the sixth hour.

Dr. Niles will speak five times on "The Compulsion of the Faith" and Prof. Stewart five times on "Preaching to This Generation." The Visser 't Hooft lectures will be entitled "The World Council of Churches as a Christocentric Movement," and "Our Ecumenical Task in the Light of the New Delhi Assembly."

Evening lectures will be held in the Princeton University Chapel and morning lectures are scheduled Tuesday through Friday at McCarter Theatre. Admission is by ticket, obtained without charge from the office of the Sesquicentennial at the Seminary.

CHOIR SAYS "YES"

U. S. to Pay Part. The Princeton High School Choir has said "yes" to an invitation to sing in West Berlin this June, and the United States Department of State has agreed to pay part of the expenses.

But the choir needs a minimum of $13,000 more and a maximum of $22,000. State can only pay whatever expenses are incurred in Europe itself and the choir must pay transportation to West Berlin and back for the 60 persons who will sing and chaperone.

Members of the choir will not only be "Gaeste aus dem Ausland"—guests from abroad—during the West Berlin Music Festival, they will be the only American representatives to appear at the three-day event.

"We hope for the strongest support by municipal officials, state officials, business people and the entire Princeton school community — including sending districts," stated Graham Rohrer, president of the Borough School Board in launching the choir's appeal for funds.

All parents of singers have agreed to contribute to the cost of sending their own children, Mr. Rohrer said.

Only One Chosen. The Princeton High School Choir, directed by Thomas Hilbish, is the only high school group in the country to be cleared by the American National Theatre and Academy, qualifying agents for the State Department for foreign cultural appearances.

imposes things on the community."

The effect of prejudices on planning.

"Get the Facts." J. P. Meyer, president of the Chamber of Commerce, urged the audience to "get the facts" read the local papers and attend the regular meetings of the locally-elected people. Try to get facts, not opinions, and present facts when you go before these people." He was loudly applauded.

Planners Heckled. Members of the audience, as the meeting grew to a close, rose to challenge the Planning Board members present on various issues.

"Why can some people get 25 or 30 variances when they are building a house and other people can't get even one variance?"

"We're not Cleveland" said another. "Is Dodd McHugh still being given his head in Borough planning?"

"Come to the meeting," said Planning Board chairman S. Webster Dodge, "and help us not make Cleveland out of Princeton — or is it Princeton out of Cleveland."

"There may not be enough room," Mrs. Erdman reminded him.

"Then we'll move upstairs. Everybody's welcome."

About 25 interested persons did appear at Tuesday night's special Tell-it-to-McHugh Planning Board meeting, including Mrs. Erdman, W. Hollis Tegarden and Fred English of the Residents group.

"I was asked to tell the Board that it should concentrate most on giving fuller information to the public," Mrs. Erdman said, and Mr. Tegarden added.

"We hope to overcome the negative attitude people have toward planning. There was a real and deep fear of the term 'Master Plan' revealed at our meeting Monday night. Planning seems arbitrary to people — let's OK this side of the street, and change that — and we Residents of Princeton hope we can help the Planning Board overcome this suspicion."

ROUND-UP

If you think Easter is late this year, you're right—so much so that it will not be later than April 22 until the next century—it falls on April 23 in the year 2000.

It comes as late as it does this spring because the last cyclical full moon occurred just a few hours before the vernal equinox, and Easter—according to the formula adopted at the Council of Nicaea in 325 A.D.—falls on the first Sunday following the cyclical full moon after the vernal equinox . . . next year, Easter will be on April 14.

Faulty wiring has been listed as the cause for an early-morning fire that did $123,000 damage to the Pennsylvania Railroad Station in Trenton in the pre-dawn hours Monday. . . temporary ticket booths are in use, however, and passenger traffic is not affected.

Some light-fingered soul who is amused with the collection of "wanted" posters he took from Borough Police Headquarters may find the smile on the other side of his face . . . pilferage of such material is a federal offense.

Trouble is brewing, too, for anyone found inserting slugs in coin-operated machines . . . 43 of them—pre-cut—were removed from the U-Wash at the Shopping Center, with the offense worth as much as $1000 and three years in jail.

Person To Person

Cory S Kammler

We were given a quote which belongs in the "How's that again?" department. It was taken from a Japanese effort in English to explain their traffic problems: "With the increase of motor vehicles, traffic has shown such an increase that the civic centers of Tokyo and Osako are in a saturated condition. It often occurs that in the intersections of these cities a group of staying vehicles cannot pass through within the time of one Go signal, thereby causing a so-called pile-up phenomenon." And then we learned of a 5 year study at Iowa State College of motorists in their state, which tells us such things as: "Men show little improvement in their driving ability during their first 6 years of driving . . . but women drivers keep right on improving year after year from their very first year at the wheel." (It says here) Well, traffic throughout the world is a problem and if we can get a bit of humor out of it we'd like to pass the smile on to you. But seriously, for wonderful attention in the friendliest manner, may we please serve you? Kammler Buick-Pontiac Co., Route 206 opposite the Princeton Airport. WA 1-2222.

Wet spring? Measurable precipitation fell six out of seven days last week, only Saturday remaining dry and that day marked by such chill blasts that outdoor activities were no special pleasure . . . rainfall varied from a mere .07 on Friday to almost half an inch Tuesday and better than that on Thursday . . . a lot of the drops were mixed with snowflakes, too . . . the thermometer dipped below freezing Sunday, Monday and Tuesday before moving upwards at midweek.

Want to adopt an abandoned beagle? Borough Police were called to Stanworth, Saturday to pick one up in a basement laundry with a note tied to his collar saying that he was gentle and healthy" . . . he's now at the Lawrence Hospital for Animals.

PORTER AT SEA

Rut Cast Well-Grounded. The cruise of the S. S. American provides the backdrop for Cole Porter's "Anything Goes," the spring musical now being directed by Milton Lyon for presentation next Friday at 8:30 in McCarter Theatre.

Performances will also be given matinee and evening, April 28, and on the evenings of Friday and Saturday, May 11 and 12.

In the romantic lead is Ruth Best playing Hope Harcourt, the betrothed of Sir Evelyn Oakleigh, played by Stuart Duncan. When Hope and an early love, Billy Crocker (Greg Farrell) are reunited, Sir Evelyn finds his way into the calloused heart of one Reno Sweeney (Anne Sheldon) and "Anything Goes."

Other members of the cast are Cobbles and Pat Stuthahn, Petie Duncan, Faye Tauber, Bert Wunderlich and "Marian of the Bait."

G. & S. IN REHEARSAL

"Sorcerer," "Trial." With A. Munroe Wade as director and Edward Earle as choreographer, Gilbert and Sullivan's "Trial By Jury" and "The Sorcerer" are now in rehearsal for production May 3, 4 and 5 in McCarter.

Returning for his second year as musical director for the Savoyards is Vernon Boushell, who is also music director for the New Jersey State Home for Boys and for the Presbyterian Church of Avenel. Claude Engle will do sets and lights.

Viola Ponisi, soloist at the Second Presbyterian Church, Princeton, will play the plaintiff in "Trial." Warren Dodson, soloist with the First Presbyterian Church Choir, will sing Alexis in "The Sorcerer" and Frank Carr, a senior at Princeton, will sing the title role. Savoyard devotees will remember Mr. Carr as the Mikado last year.

Also in the "Sorcerer" cast will be Fred M. Ferguson, Charlotte Boyd and Janet Thorsen. The chorus of "villagers" will comprise University undergraduates, women students at Westminster Choir College and townspeople from Princeton and neighboring towns, some as far as Levittown, Pa., and West New York.

Tickets may be obtained at the University Store or by mail from the Savoyards, 311 Henry Hall, Princeton. Prices are $2, $2.50, $3 and $3.50 for evening; $2, $2.25, $2.50 and $3 for the matinee on Saturday.

BAEZ TO COME HERE

In Midnight Show. After the 11 performance of "Anything Goes" on May 12 in McCarter, Joan Baez, the folksinger, will come out on the McCarter stage with the Greenbriar Boys for a midnight appearance.

Tickets for the folk-singer's performance will be $3 and $2.25 and will go on sale in the near future.

"ASK ANY GIRL"

Tickets for the reserved seats may be purchased at $1 and $1.25 by sending a check and stamped, self-addressed envelope to "Class of '62, South Brunswick High School." Reservations may also be made by calling WA 9-4044, ext. 9.

"TOREADORS" PLANNED

By Commuters. Emery Battis, whose most recent appearance was in "The Alchemist," will appear as General St. Pe in a production of Anouilh's "Waltz of the Toreadors," to be given by the Kendall Park Commuters May 2-5 in the Greenbrook School, Roberts Road, Kendall Park.

Elaine Battis, Renee Durand, John Lithgow, William Behrle, Betty Dickson, Ruth Kaufman, Joseph Alario, Gloria Burger, Claudia Eckstract and Joby Smith will also be in the cast.

Proceeds from opening night will go to the South Brunswick Chapter of the American Cancer Society. Tickets for all performances may be purchased at the door or through Mrs. Jerry Donigr. Organizations interested in fund-raising through "Waltz of the Toreadors" may discuss their plans with Mrs. Harry Rosenfeld, 95 Kendall Road.

THE PLAYHOUSE

Rome Adventure (April 18-24) is a film that travels from Rome to the Alps and back again, starring Troy Donohue, Angie Dickinson, Constance Ford and Rossano Brazzi in his perennial role of Italian lover. The film introduces Suzanne Pleshette, a beautiful and promising young actress.

Based on "Lovers Must Learn," a novel by Irving Fineman, "Rome Adventure" is produced, written and directed by Delmer Daves, who turned out "Parrish" and "Susan Slade." The plot is frothy, concerning Miss Plesette's trip to Rome to find out what love is all about. There are complications, a cross-country romance and a happy ending. Comment: Picasant trip.

The Man Who Shot Liberty Valance (April 25-May 1) is a solid story Western, directed by John Ford and starring James Stewart and John Wayne. It concerns the battle for statehood, which marked the opening of the old wild west, and revolves around the lives of three persons: Stewart, a young lawyer who comes west and meets violence, ruthlessness and a gun-slinging hoodlum; Wayne, an honest, quiet rancher who befriends Stewart; and Vera Miles, a pretty, illiterate waitress in the cafe at Shinbone. The vicious, big-rancher inspired attacks of Liberty Valance, played to the hilt by Lee Marvin of TV fame, trigger the action.

Others in the cast include Edmund O'Brien, as the drinking, but crusading editor; and Andy Devine, as the fat, bumbling town marshall. Comment: a Western with a "difference."

MUSIC

PIANO AND STRINGS

In Season's Final Concert. On Monday evening at McCarter Theatre, the final concert of the 1961-62 series of Princeton University Concerts presented the Beaux Arts Trio of New York, whose members are Daniel Guilet, violinist; Bernard Greenhouse, 'cellist; and Menahem Pressler, pianist. They performed works by Haydn (in F-sharp minor), Beethoven, and Schubert (the latter both in B-flat major).

Given the program, containing three masterworks, and the Beaux Arts Trio, containing three musicians, it could not have been other than a satisfactory evening. It need hardly be stressed, of course, that this is no ad hoc ensemble formed for economic reasons, but a group of performers who play together frequently, and have quite obviously prepared their repertoire with considerable care.

This care was in evidence throughout the evening in such basic matters as balance and attack, and equally in such details as phrasing. Mr. Pressler, at the helm of the loudest instrument, deserves most of the praise for the satisfactory balance; his playing was always within an appropriate dynamic framework, yet never mere "accompaniment," with the purely negative virtue of discretion.

The lower end of the string sound was firmly maintained by Mr Greenhouse, who also appeared here earlier this season with the Bach Aria Group, with equally sonorous effect.

ATTEMPTING TOTAL RESTRAINT of her dog, Colette Brosset adds to the general confusion and merriment of "La Belle Americaine" coming Wednesday to the Garden.

Mr Guilet's slightly more flamboyant style seemed occasionally out of place, and his failure to retune after the second movement of the Schubert gave rise to some minor palpitations in the remainder of that work.

Given the above qualification, and a few minor mishaps such as the precipitous version of "Allegro moderato" offered at the beginning of the Schubert (and then, fortunately, abandoned), one can only praise the integrity and consistency of the performances. A tendency towards over-accentuation, especially in the matter of Beethoven's "sforzandi," a change of tempo which seemed more manneristic than structural—such things might give rise to disagreement, but hardly to condemnation, in the context of such carefully prepared performances.

As encores, the Scherzo from Mendelssohn's Opus 49, and the slow movement from Dvorak's "Dumky" Trio were offered—two selections which easily met the notoriously high standards maintained by this department in such matters, the Mendelssohn in particular being a tantalizing sample of a work which would be suitable subject matter for the sibilities and comes up with an exciting motion picture.

The story concerns a London newspaper and its reporting of two nuclear explosions of utterly incredible strength accidentally set off simultaneously at the North and South Poles. It is told in flashback, as a reporter, Edward Judd, staggers down a desolate, totally empty street in the heart of London, enters the news office and dictates a story which indicates that in the next few hours the world will know whether it will go on living, or die. With telling effect, a series of floods, blizzards and other storms are shown hitting unlikely places on the globe. As the earth shifts out of orbit and races toward the sun, the world is faced with drought, pictured in London and its environs. Then comes the Government effort to save the planet through another series of blasts. Comment: nuclear future?

La Belle Americaine (April 25-May 1) is a frolicsome farce about a French laborer, Marcel, who through a stroke of good luck, buys a glossy Cadillac convertible for 500 new francs ($100). Dubbed "La Belle Americaine," the convertible causes endless confusion and consternation. Most confused of all is Marcel.

The comedy was written and directed by Robert Dhery, who with Colette Brosset, presented the rollicking revue, "La Plume de Ma Tante" on Broadway not long ago. Dhery also plays the role of Marcel in the film; Miss Brosset is Pauline, Marcel's high-tempered wife, and Louis de Funes takes on two screamingly funny small parts. Comment: French music hall stuff, complete with dog act. English subtitles.

IT'S NEW To Us

NOT COTTON?

Yes, and Alone, Too. After years of parading the virtues of cotton and dacron, the suit people have now come up with a terrific new thing for men in the summer: an all-cotton jacket. Rather like discovering that water is wet, but there you are.

The jacket we mention is at The English Shop in blue or mint and white striped seersucker, matchlessly tailored and guaranteed to keep you from noticing the heat.

Sophisticates will push aside the seersucker for a silk-and-wool hand-woven import, a jacket still in the natural colors of its yerns, with the slightest flavor of brown in the pongee.

There are also innumerable superb batik jackets, some as rich and sombre as the muted stains of a glass window, others vibrant and earthy with browns and rusts, still others blending greens and browns in the harmonies of spring.

Even men who lubb the land can wear a sailing jacket made like International code flags. Buy "F" and get a natural jacket with a red diamond forming the front, or "E" for a jacket with navy top and red bottom. Washable, wind and water repellent, all combed cotton with nylon lining.

A natural jacket has an all-cotton shell, like linen, and totally washable.

Leaving the week-end behiod, we come to Monday morning and a Good Grey Suit to wear behind a desk. The English Shop has worsted-tex suits in a smoky Glen Urquhart plaid, so reticient you can cardly see the lines on the hardly see the lines on the grey ground. There's a deep charcoal in this weight, too.

A daeron and woni 7½-8 ounce tropical worsted gabardine brings to light a color almost like the covert suits of some years back. This one is a shade more olive and a shade less tan, however.

Rooster's ties for this year continue their off-beat way. One, in dark hues of brown, olive and rust, looks like a bordered bandanna folded into a tie, with diagonal floral stripes and an unexpected striped motif down at the point. There is also a softly striped awning tie, and a diagonally striped tie with small designs hidden in the stripes.

GOLD, AND STACKED

You a Spectator? The season's most spectacular shoe on the spectator side, is a pure gold model which we found while prospecting at Nassau Shoe Tree, Palmer Square West.

This little nugget is real gold, not just gold color, designed with a perfectly straight face in thhe elassic spectator manner, with a brown stacked heel. It's kid, $14.95.

Other dress-up occasions might bring forth the high-heeled "Petunia," a silk print pump incorporating blues and pinks in a magnificently uncontrolled bouquet, or "Polka," an embroidered mesh pump with fragments of orange, yellow, royal and emerald held together by a beige lustre calf binding. You get a bag to match, if you want one. Clutch purse.

Various shades of sand, bone and cream are evident in the spring-summer collection of pumps at Nassau Shoe Tree, beginning with Palizzio's combination of sand and bronze patent, with a vamp that buttons over like a vest and a very high heel. This deeply V-d vamp repeates on a sand pump with a pointed lap over the vamp but less detail than the other shoe.

Sweet Under Sixteen

The English Shop, devoted for so many years to tweed and briar, has blossomed shyly forth with Mr. Mort's delielous dresses for girls about high-school age.

So far, the dresses have made only a modest debut and there are just a few styles to choose from, but you will unquestionably want all there are, and you will want to watch for those that are to come.

Look, for example, at a full-skirted cotton in great big gingham squares with smocking all over the bodice, a wide, square neck, velvet sash, and nothing in the way of sleeves at all. Pink, chocolate, charcoal.

A pure silk pongee has a gentle skirt, round little neck with self piping and a flat bow, and a very narrow belt. Watch the wings for others.

Dark brown patent covers one side and the high heel of a bone shoe with the minute perforations that are boring into everything this spring. There is a little buckle on the side of this shoe, to give it a bit of tailored detail. A matching bag is bone only, simply executed with space and style.

On the navy side, there is a calf pump with vertieal slits lined up along the vamp, and another with slightly lower, sturdier heel for people who like navy and walking.

The most sensible walking shoe we found has a rounded toe and forthright heel, with a bow on the vamp to provide dash. A warm-weather colleague in the same style is black mesh with patent trim and bow.

Incidentally, that old black patent, so prevalent this spring, turns up in one shoe with a squared toe and a matte calf body and a heel high enough to fly. Palizzo uses mat-

Music Critic Replies.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Mrs Tiffin Harper's views on music criticism, as expressed in a letter printed in last week's issue, are not very different from views expressed earlier this year by other correspondents, but, since it appears likely that you will have this controversy on your hands for a while yet, I should like to suggest a few ground-rules.

1. It would be appreciated if correspondents would make direct quotation from the offending reviews, rather than resorting to inaccurate paraphrase Mrs Harper is already on thin ice when she claims that I have told various performers "how to do it," but she enters the realm of pure fantasy when she says that I told Szell "how to interpret Bartok."

If she will consult the review in question, she will find that I expressed more than a little admiration of the Cleveland Orchestra's remarkable performance of the "Concerto for Orchestra." This sort of thing is not central to the controversy, but it has happened once before, and I find it interesting that my reputation as a dog in the manger seems to need such ersatz enhancement.

2. Perhaps we could have a moratorium on the fictitious, if diverting, glimpses into my personal life, such as Mrs. Harper's account of my preparation for concerts. Controversy over the facts of the review is one thing, but these amiable little fabrications do little credit to their authors, who would be the first to howl with rage if I were to lard my reviews with items of backstage gossip (these might at least have the merit of being true).

It is kind of Mrs. Harper to grant that I am "well prepared," but it may surprise her to learn that, since one of my modest qualifications as a reviewer is the ability to read music, I do much of my "homework" with the musical score itself, on the perhaps naive assumption that one of the reviewer's main functions is to report on the manner in which the performer has presented that score.

3. Perhaps we can dispense with the "appeal to higher authority," whether in the form of prize juries or of other critics — especially the critic of The New York Times, who treated us recently to the most extraordinary burlesque of criticism ever seen in those august pages. Such authorities are rarely relevant, since they refer to different performances, and, as Mrs. Harper correctly observes, an artist does not "repeat identically what he has done before." If Mrs. Harper heard in Princeton the "controlled classicism" which she approvingly italicizes in Mr Schonberg's review of a New York performance, there is no need to bring him into the discussion at all.

4. If the readers of this newspaper want a reviewer who will always assure them that he "had a wonderful time and wished you were there"—and this if the only construction I can place on some of this correspondence—no doubt the Editor will entertain suggestions for my replacement in the meantime. I will do my best to observe and praise artistic integrity, perceptiveness, imagination, and sensitivity, and, when necessary, to point out that some performers do not take seriously the tasks which are their responsibility as musical executants.

5. "We want to enjoy our concerts, please," says Mrs. Harper—and seems to imply that, somehow, the reviews are preventing that (although I hasten to assure her that not once has Town Topics' review ever appeared before the concert). At least one simple remedy suggests itself: don't read them. An alternative course would be to write a letter to the Editor explaining why you enjoyed the concert and in what ways the review was an inaccurate account of it. Such an intelligent letter, demonstrating that its author had really listened to the concert and read the review, would be a pleasure to read and to discuss, in contrast to these inaccuracies, fantasies, and irrelevancies, to which, I think you will agree, we have all now devoted more time and space than they deserve.

DAVID P. HAMILTON
13 Olden Street.

"Bravo, Mr. Hamilton."

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Analogy may prove nothing, but, as in the device of the parable, it often may enlarge vision of the human predicament as much as may, say, a definition of terms. Apropos of Tiffin Harper's letter setting The New York Times' Mr. Shonberg's remarks against TOWN TOPICS' music critic, Mr. Hamilton's pronouncement on Mr. Munch's concert, a voice should be raised to point out that, just as literary criticism is supportable only as it is specific and detailed, so should that of music be.

This is to say that Mr. Hamilton's review in the sentence quoted in TOWN TOPICS stands head over heels above Mr. Schonberg's vague comment . . . "Naturally, Mr. Munch leads the impressionist scores in quite a different manner than Mr. Koussivitsky used to," in that Mr. Hamilton's was specific, recalling to us Koussevitsky's "color, personality and tone," and making with this definite image a comparison, "Mr. Munch . . . also has personality and color," and even more helpful to those who would add understanding to enjoyment, a contrast, ". . . but he brings to it a degree of controlled classicism that is most unusual."

Bravo, Mr. Hamilton! Yours is the thankless job of fighting for distinctions in an effort to raise standards of taste and appreciation in an age where immediate pleasure and mere reportorial "a great time was had by all" would engross the arts, and criticism, to the lowest common denominator — "I know what I like."

Join the 20 million families who won a BUDGET BATTLE

In the past 10 years, more than 20 million loans were made to American families who borrowed from HFC with a purpose! Some arranged their loans for emergencies—to pay bills or cover medical and dental expenses. Others borrowed to make home improvements or to go on a real vacation. All borrowed with confidence because of the fair, understanding assistance they received at Household Finance. You can, too.

The sale will be held in the basement of the Second Presbyterian Church next Wednesday from 12:30 to 9; Thursday, April 26, 9 to 9; and Friday, 9 to 4. ates his own fabrics too, much of the time, has let slip a bolt which is now in the hands of Gretchen's Fabrics, Route 103.

This is a floral striped cotton, with six wide deeply colored stripes (purple, brown, orange) arranged in random order, each one with a line of little flowers marching down the stripe. A thick black line separates each colored band.

Italian and Swiss cottons will make summer clothes as demure or as flamboyant as your choice. The sheerest Swiss batiste combines one-inch stripes of pale maize and grey (yellow-grey) and the most brazen Italian print displays 14-inch urns, done in Capri blue and turquoise and set with overlapping carelessness against white.

Another white ground sustains wide navy stripes laid down nine inches apart and narrowly banded with half-lace (just printed lace, you understand.)

Linen prints are abstract (pale blue and grey), concrete (yellow starflowers against beige) or geometric, (strong narrow Roman stripes) with matchmates of all the solid colors you ever saw, including a limpid cornflower blue and a raspberry that looks like a soda.

On the embroidered linens, you may find plump little flowers in an all-over pattern, or sea-figures in a two-inch embroidered border, (this one on a silk linen) and even in a linen damask in beige to wear as dress or table-cloth.

the clearance phrase used by ANTA in its recommendations to the State Department.

The West Berlin Invitation grew out of the choir's appearance in Princeton last summer before an international convention of musicologists. At that time, Mr. Hilbish led his young singers in two extremely difficult 12-tone works (Cantatas 1 and 2) by Anton Webern, works which they performed with such skill that the musicologists, returning home, described the performance to their colleagues with words of highest praise.

"The young singers and their director achieved complete cohesiveness of ensemble, precision of rhythm and intonation and showed an uncommon level of vocal culture," said Sovietskaya Muzyka. "They deserve every praise."

Many Invitations Received. The West Berlin Festival will be held from June 12 through 13, and the choir plans to leave Princeton June 10. However, in the wake of the musicologists' praise, invitations have come to Princeton from many European cities and it is the hope of Mr. Hilbish and Mr. Rohrer that the choir will be able to raise, not $13,000 but $22,000, which would enable the group to accept almost all the invitations extended to it.

If the $22,000 can be raised, the choir would then sing over the Hamburg radio, at the Universities of Hanover and Muenster, at the Youth Festival at The Hague, Brussels University, the Wiesbaden Music School, the Universities of Freiburg and Zurich and over the Berne, Switzerland, radio.

In addition, they would sing at the Abbaye de Royaumont, Paris, under the auspices of UNESCO, at the University of London and the Royal College of Music, the University of Edinburgh and King's College in Edinburg. This complete tour would start them back to Princeton on July 14.

"Accepting these invitations would provide a very rare experience for these boys and girls," Mr. Rohrer believes. "They represent a tribute to our school system and the communities that send their children to it, and to our state and nation as well."

In explaining this itinerary, Mr. Hilbish pointed out that it is an academic one.

"This would not be an entertainment-concert tour," he emphasized. "The Choir has been asked to these universities to sing before graduate seminars or faculty groups. They will sing Webern, for example, so that composition students can study Webern's technique from hearing his music."

In addition to the Webern cantatas, they will sing the Bach Magnificat, Stravinsky's "Symphony of Psalms" and several shorter works.

The Princeton High School Choirs of 1961 and 1962 will make this trip. This means the inclusion of 10 singers, including two soloists, Marcia Ramsey and Durant Robinson, who are now freshmen in college. At State Department insistence, the 40 members of the choir who will make the trip, will be chosen competitively.

There will be an accompanist (Mrs. Mathilde McKinney) and one chaperone for every 10 students.

A special telephone line (WA 1-7683) has been installed at Princeton High School to handle the fund-raising, and a special account has been opened at the bank. Gordon Waldron, 22 Wilson Road, has agreed to serve as fund-raiser, and will contribute half a day each weekday to the fund-raising task.

HEARINGS END

In "Mansgrove" Case. The tenth and final public hearing in the "Mansgrove" multiple housing presentation was held Friday afternoon before the Township Zoning Board.

No summation was made by attorneys for either side, but they will be made, possibly in writing, within the next two weeks. The court stenographer has asked for 10 days to two weeks to prepare his transcripts, so it will be at least a month before the Board can go into the executive sessions needed to discuss the case and arrive at a decision.

At the final hearing, a representative of the Township PTA read into the record a letter expressing the group's opposition to apartments in the area because of traffic.

Roger Mason, 294 Jefferson Road, expressed his opposition also, but when he began to state his reasons for opposing the project, he was told by the Board that he did not qualify as an expert and therefore could not express more than his "yes" or "no."

MAY WILL BRING DOGS

To Township. A public hearing will be held in mid-May on the new dog control ordinance for the Township.

Committeeman John S. Mount said at Monday night's meeting that although Committee planned the hearing for May, it did not plan to implement the new ordinance until September 1 "to give people time to get prepared, physically and emotionally."

The chief problem is to find storage space for the dogs that will be picked up, Mr. Mount told Committee. He said that, contrary to earlier information, the Borough has stated that it will cooperate in paying the salary of a dog-control officer regardless of what the Borough decides to do with its own dog ordinance.

Mr. Mount said that he and Borough Councilman William Walker and Mrs. Allan W. Stephens of the Small Animal Rescue League, will discuss the dog-pound problem again, and may well decide on a joint Borough-Township facility.

A new ordinance was introduced that goes one step beyond state law to give all interested persons a chance to comment on a requested variance when it comes before Township Committee on a Zoning Board recommendation. At present, only property owners living within 200 feet of a requested variance are legally informed of a Zoning Board hearing.

During the lengthy discussion that followed introduction, Miss Helen Fairbanks, 70 Valley Road, and Edwin C. Hutter, Van Dyke Road, expressed concern over the "Mansgrove" zoning hearings at which, they said, property owners were allowed to express only agreement or disagreement and were not permitted to give reasons.

"This scares me to death," Mr. Mount said. "It underscores the need for having a zoning hearing at the Township Committee level."

Gordon Griffin, Township attorney, explained that the "Mansgrove" hearings were unusual because they were conducted like a trial, following rules of evidence. He said he believed that Township Committee was the proper forum for the expression of general philosophy and opinion, as opposed to evidence. To provide such a forum, he said, was one purpose of the proposed ordinance.

Committee tabled it, and will hold informal conversations with the zoning board before casting a vote.

Committee will consider a request from residents of Princeton Pike to change the street name to Mercer Road. The request for a car-wash on Route 206 was denied because there is no sewer in the area, but Committee stipulated that the denial should not prejudice a later application when the sewer had been installed.

George Cramer, 654 State Road, urged Committee to build a Hillside sewer as soon as possible, and A. J. Cevera, 5 Hillside, said that residents would shortly petition Committee for a sewer.

"Make sure the petition says they will agree to be assessed for it" Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman told Mr. Cevera.

HOME ENTERED

Items Taken. An electric blanket, a 21-inch television set, a table radio, a 17-jewel watch and a costume jewelry box were taken Friday afternoon from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Snyder, 14 Fairway Drive.

Police said that the blanket was apparently used as a bag to haul away the other loot, because the controls were left behind. A complete inventory of missing items is expected to exceed $230.

Entry was gained by forcing the back kitchen door to the house some time between 2 and 4:15 p.m. Township Police are continuing their investigation of the burglary.

TELLER ASKS DELETION

Of Oppenheimer References. Sixty-four seconds of taped interview between Dr. Edward Teller and Eric F. Goldman were deleted at the request of Dr. Teller before the Goldman "Open Mind" interview was shown Sunday on NBC-TV.

Dr. Goldman had asked Dr. Teller whether he was still opposed to granting clearance to Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer and allowing him to "serve the government of the United States."

Dr. Teller, who was one of Dr. Oppenheimer's chief opponents when the latter was denied security clearance in 1954, remained silent after the question for 13 seconds, according to Dr. Goldman, a member of the Department of History at Princeton.

At the end of that time, Dr. Goldman said, "I take it you do not want to discuss the matter," and again Dr. Teller remained silent. After the taped interview had been completed Dr. Teller asked that the delebe made, and it was.

SCHOOL IS NAMED

To be Stuart Country Day. The school for girls which will open in September, 1963, under the guidance of the Religious of the Sacred Heart, will be known as Stuart Country Day School of the Sacred Heart, Princeton.

The school has been named in honor of Janet E. Stuart, Superior General and spiritual leader of the Society of the Sacred Heart in the early years of the 20th century.

Following the completion of a culvert and baseroad, the Advisory Board of the school will hold a "site Visiting Day," probably in May, on the school property on The Gheat Road. The property is bisected by a new road, Stuart Road, extending north from the existing Great Road.

According to Russell O'Brien, chairman of the Advisory Board for the Princeton project, architectural plans are nearly complete, and title to the 55-acre property, formerly owned by Lady Catherine Monck, has been transferred to Country Days' School of the Sacred Heart, Princeton, Inc.

When completed, Stuart Conntry Day will accommodate 300 girls, grades kindergarten through 10.

Register for School

Parents of children who will enter Borough kindergarten in the fall have been asked to register at Nassau Street School May 2, 9 and 16 from 9 to 10:30 a.m.

Parents must bring birth certificate and evidence of inoculation against diphtheria, smallpox and polio and other information pertaining to the child's health. Parents are also asked to make an appointment with the Nassau Street School's nurse's office by calling WA 4-5600.

CRASH KILLS TWO

Near Hopewell. A boy and his uncle were killed Saturday night when their car rammed a stone wall at Bear Tavern Road and Route 546 (Washington Crossing-Pennington Road.

The dead are Robert Conover, 8, 12 West Delaware Avenue and his uncle, DeWitt V Conover, 35, Scotch Road, both of Pennington. Robert was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Conover. His father, a passenger in the car, was seriously injured.

Also injured seriously was the driver of the second car, Joseph F. Gill, 31, Ewing Township. All four were taken to Mercer Hospital by the Pennington First Aid Squad and the Titusville Fire Company. Robert and his uncle were pronounced dead on arrival at the hospital.

According to state police, Mr. Gill was driving north on Bear Tavern Road, which is a stop-sign street, and the Conovers were driving toward Pennington on Route 546 when the crash occurred.

DeWitt Conover was employed in the plasma physics laboratory of the Forrestal Research Center. His survivors include his wife and two other brothers.

YOUTHS ARE FINED

For Fighting. Three Trenton men and one Princeton resident appeared before Borough Magistrate Theodore T. Tams, Jr. in criminal court Monday to answer charges of fighting near the Palmer Square bus stop on Nassau Street just before 8 Saturday night.

Charles Young, 21, 60 Leigh Avenue, was fined $50 and placed on a year's probation. The charge of fighting against Marvin Jester, 18, 215 Bellevue Avenue, Trenton, and Alfred Slade, 24, 424 Monmouth Street, Trenton, was dismissed. Slade, however, was sent to Mercer County Jail, after a preliminary hearing, to await action by a grand jury as a result of a charge of unlawful use of a dangerous weapon, a 13-inch Italian stiletto.

Leroy Whitfield, 22, 765 E. State Street, Trenton, was fined $50 and placed on one year's probation. All pleaded not guilty.

During the fight, Slade was knocked down, kicked and lost consciousness. He was taken to Princeton Hospital by the First Aid Unit and 10 stiches were required to close a wound behind his left ear. Police warned that fighting in the future would mean violation of their probations and would be dealt with severely.

In other cases, Timothy N. Burman, 19, Fouke Hall; Donald C. Alford, 3rd, 18, Fouke Hall; and Gordon Cranmer, 18, Henry Hall, all Princeton University, pleaded guilty to illegal possession of alcohol as minors. Each was fined $25.

William Johnson, 22, White Plains, N. Y., forfeited a $200 bail when he failed to appear to answer a charge of canvassing here without a Borough permit. Police report that Johnson had been going from door to door on Linden Lane Saturday afternoon soliciting business to paint wood shingle roofs with a seal coat of questionable nature. Bail was purposely set high by the police whose suspicions were aroused after recalling an incident a year ago in which a man with the same name swindled a Princeton resident in a similar manner.

In Traffic Court. Three Princeton motorists were fined for traffic infractions Monday by Borough Magistrate Theodore T. Tams, Jr.

They are: Roderick A. Mc-Manigal, 40, Cold Soil Road, $15, for failing to set the hand brake of his car; Mrs. Cinda Erdman, 24, 76 Quaker Road, $15, no inspection; and Lewis G. Drake, 17, 19 Stanworth Lane, $15, late inspection. Mr McManigal pleaded not guilty.

In Princeton Township, Magistrate James S. Hill fined Charles T. Mangum, 19, 162 John Street, $25 on a charge of careless driving. The defendant pleaded not guilty.

Edgar M. Smith, Jr. and Carl Wilson polled 217 and 203 respectively in a three-way race for Borough Council on the Republican ticket. They defeated Robert Thalhofer, who polled 83.

PEACE MARCH SET

From Edison to U.N. The itinerary of the 1962 Turn Towards Peace March has been set, according to Mrs. Betty Fussel, chairman of the Princeton Turn Towards Peace movement.

The march will start Thursday at 10 at the Raritan Arsenal in Edison. It will then pass through Fords, Woodbridge, Colonia, Rahway, Linden and Roselle, ending in Elizabeth. By Friday evening the marchers will have reached Jersey City and from there will march through New York to the United Nations on Saturday.

Meetings, addressed by various speakers, are planned all along the route. The marchers will carry banners urging the end of all nuclear weapons tests by all nations and complete world disarmament under UN inspection and control.

Additional information and transportation to the site of the march may be obtained from Mrs. Betty Cogburn at WA 1-7979.

FOR CHILDREN

A World of Fun. "A veritable children's world of fun and games" has been promised by the planners of the Princeton Hospital Fete Day to be held June 2 next to Palmer Stadium.

Mrs. Lee Bristol, Jr., Mrs. Stuart Duncan and Mrs. Donald Pickering and their committee have planned many diversions for the children. Among them are tractor and pony rides, fencing, hole-in-one, fish pond and a shooting gallery. The Bell Telephone Company has planned an exhibit in which children will be able to hear their own conversations recorded and replayed by phone.

A special hot dog and lemonade stand will operate primarily for the children as will a milk bar. Also, the Hopewell Women's Club will operate a Country Store where children may buy toys within their budgets. A dog training exhibit will again be in operation under the chairmanship of Mrs. Francis Austin of the Princeton Dog Training Club.

ANNA WELLS TO SPEAK

Before Somerville Guild. Anna Mary Wells will be the guest speaker at a meeting of the South Somerville Guild of Creative Arts to be held at the Hillsboro School, Route 206 May 1. Her subject will be: "Adventure In Biography, Thomas Wentworth Higginson."

Stay-at-Home Election

More than 90 percent of Princetonians by-passed Tuesday's primary elections in what may well have been the lightest vote in the past quarter-century. In the Borough, only eight percent (401) went to the polls; in the Township, seven percent (415) cast ballots in the no-contest election.

Complimentary Borough Council totals: Republicans William H. Walker, 2d, and Alfred E. Sorenson, each 221; Democrats Shaw Livermore, Jr., 157; and James E. Andrews, 154.

Township totals: Republicans John O. Green, 280, and Carl C. Schafer, Jr., 279; Democrats William W. Marvel, 132, and John Hite, 131.

Papers will be collected on the last Sunday of each month throughout West Windsor Township, starting at 10 a.m., until further notice. The firemen request that householders bundle the papers and set them out along the road so that they can be easily spotted.

Question of the Week

Question: Are you in sympathy with or opposed to teachers who strike for more money?

Where asked: Around town.

Charles Smyth, 321 Nassau Street, Princeton High School senior: I feel that teachers are underpaid but as far as their striking goes it tends to complicate matters very much. Obviously, it isn't a very desirable situation to have a lot of kids out of school. I think if they want more money they should work it out on a different basis. As a last resort, if the teachers or their representatives have exhausted all other possibilities, then I would say they have a right to strike.

Donald Libby, Brunswick Pike, Princeton High School freshman: I'm in sympathy with them. They don't get paid that much anyway. Other companies and organizations can go on strike, but not teachers. I don't see why because a few days off isn't going to hurt the kids. They could take it out of our vacation anyway. I don't see how some high school teachers even last a year. I think they have a rough job. It's one of the hardest, they're on their feet all day and I think they deserve all they can get.

Mrs. Leonard Hunt, Skillman, dental assistant: I'm opposed. I think they are just acting like little children when they do something like this. I'm not saying that teachers are not entitled to more money, but I think they are going at it the wrong way by striking.

Dewey Wallace, 415-B Devereux Avenue, graduate student, religion: I think teachers have the right to bargain collectively in pursuit of their economic goals just as much as any other group. On the other hand, the nature of their work imposes a greater need for responsibility than it does on other groups. In the light of the current situation, I feel they have acted responsibly. They've been threatening to strike for years and this is just the culmination.

Miss Mary Jane Martenis, 213 Ewing Street: I'm opposed because I think it is unprofessional. If a city or a community hasn't enough money to pay its teachers, then they'll just have to wait for awhile.

Mrs. Dean W. Meyerson, Van Dyke Road, housewife: I think it depends on past salary raises, the general needs of a school system, and the ability of an individual system to pay. Obviously, if a community had beautiful school buildings, the best books and equipment and its teachers were receiving a low salary, then I'd be in sympathy with them. There are an awful lot of ins and outs to this question but offhand, I'd say teachers should have some means of protest. Everyone else does, from postal employees on down.

Burt Chamberlain, Hart Street, Hopewell, Seminary student: I'm in sympathy with them because I feel it is important enough that if we are to get more and better teachers, we have to be willing to pay the price. I don't think economics, per se, is the most important issue at stake here. We have a definite need for more teachers and I think only through higher wages can we induce more people to enter the profession.

Mrs. Paul Sprague, 221-B King Street, housewife: Yes, I feel they should be allowed to strike, if they were organized. I know it is a difficult question because we all hate to see the education of our children interrupted. But, on the other hand, teachers have a hard row to hoe and I think they should be permitted to do anything that will help them improve their position. I do believe that before they strike every effort should be made to solve the problem in a different way; a strike should absolutely be the last resort.

Hans Kaal, Lakeside Apartments, instructor, Princeton University: I think I'm opposed. Partly because they are public servants and partly because there are laws as I understand it, particularly in New York City, that prevent them from striking. I think they ought to respect that law.

Theodore Lubas, Belle Mead, group leader for American Cyanamid: I'm opposed to that sort of thing. I was a school board member for 12 years in Montgomery Township. Teachers are supposed to be dedicated. I feel now that money comes before the kids as far as they're concerned. Teachers are making enough as it is. Anyone making $7000 a year for only 180 days work is doing O.K. Figure it out. It comes to almost $40 a day. And they only work from 8 to 4. This business about their working extra hours correcting papers—that may have been true in the past but it isn't anymore. And on top of it all they get 10 sick days a year, too.

Mrs. Carl W. Sweitzer, 60 Balsam Lane, housewife: Nothing but sympathy. I feel terribly sorry for teachers. I think they get a rough deal all down the line. I feel any student who plans to go into teaching should think twice.

Mrs. Paul Ashton, 60 Harriet Drive, housewife: Basically, I'm opposed. I think there are other means. Teachers are professional people; they should act like professional people rather than striking and turning the educational system into a turmoil. Granted teachers need more money; it is the way they go after it I'm opposed to.

Mrs. Thomas G. Wallington, 2 Harris Road, Princeton Junction, housewife: I don't think they should go out on strike. I don't think it is a good policy for the children to see their teachers out on strike as it leaves them with a picture of violence and riot. I think they should negotiate with some other means. But I definitely feel they deserve more money.

Mrs. William Dodge, 641 Lake Drive, housewife: I think teachers should have more money but I oppose the example they set before the students. I don't think it is good for students to see them demonstrating; particularly I don't think it is good for young impressionable children. I don't think it is good for the profession, either. It is a rather dramatic way and I guess they feel they have to do something dramatic to bring home to all of us their problem.

ON INSPECTION TOUR: Members of Borough Council and Township Committee joined the Township Open Space Committee Saturday morning on a tour of the areas in the Township under consideration as "prime open space" in the plan to preserve stream valleys, woodlands and open fields for purposes of recreation and conservation. James C. Sayen (second from right), chairman of the Open Space Committee, conducted the tour to acquaint officials of the two municipalities with the need of controlling "indiscriminate" development through a balanced open space program. Members of the group included William Walker (left), Borough Council; John S. Mount, Township Committee; Alan Carrick, Joseph Wood, Borough Council; Mr. Sayen, and John Hite, Democratic candidate for Township Committee.

FATHER PLEADS GUILTY

In Infant's Death. Bruce Lacoe, 28, a student at Westminster Choir College, pleaded guilty to charges of atrocious assault and battery in connection with the fatal beating of his year-old daughter, Sharon, last September 29. He was indicted by the Monmouth County Grand Jury.

County Prosecutor Vincent P. Keuper stated that the plea of guilty would be accepted because of a "serious question" as to the cause of Sharon's death.

Mr. Lacoe, who lives on Newark Valley Road, Roosevelt, was alone with the child at the time of the assault. The mother, Mrs. Anita Lacoe, 26, found the child moaning in pain when she returned from choir practice about 10 p.m. The child died the next day in Princeton Hospital.

There just isn't anything like this new Armstrong vinyl floor. . . It's

TESSERA CORLON

When you see it, you'll agree — that new Armstrong vinyl floor, Tessera Corlon, is unique. And different. It actually has depth. You can look down into it. The softly colored vinyl chips set in translucent vinyl form fascinating random patterns. Tessera's natural textured effect adds elegance to any interior, yet never dominates. It's available in monochromatic stylings or with accent chips of contrasting colors. And Tessera can be used in every part of your home (even in a basement hideaway).

If you can't stop in to inspect this wonderfully new vinyl flooring — write or call today for samples and information.

"There is a serious question," Mr. Keuper said, "as to whether the injury that was inflicted was the cause of this child's death, and I don't think we could get a conviction." He stated that pathologists had examined the child's body and the autopsy report had attributed death to a stomach rupture caused by an external blow.

Mr. Lacne faces a maximum sentence of seven years in prison and a $2,000 fine on the assault charge.

BUSINESS In Princeton

INDEX PRESENTED

For First 1962 Quarter. According to TOWN TOPICS' quarterly Business Index (which was launched, incidentally, just two years ago this quarter), the business year in Princeton began auspiciously.

Compared to 1961's first quarter, the signs are largely "plus," as a glance in the far right-hand column of the table will show.

It is perhaps even more revealing to turn back a year and to compare the percentage of change from 1961 to 1962 with the percentage from 1960 to 1961. This year, for example, new car sales are 10 percent higher than in 1961, whereas in 1961 they were only two percent above 1960.

Telephones in service are now eight percent above 1961, although in 1961, they were only a slim one percent above the previous year.

There is 17 percent more money this quarter in Princeton checking accounts than in the same quarter a year ago. In 1961, the rate of increase was only nine percent.

For the first time, TOWN TOPICS adds to the Index the number of persons in Borough and Township who have been on the welfare rolls during the three months of the quarter.

Welfare cases represent many kinds of economic distress, both permanent and temporary. A man may be on the welfare list solely as a medical indigent — meaning that he is steadily employed, but unable to meet the financial emergency of an expensive illness.

Or, a family may be given a one week's food order, and not appear again for assistance for a whole year. Three or four cases may represent hospital expenses which the state pays back to the municipality, and half a dozen other cases may be out-of-town people whose legal residences are in Princeton and who are, therefore, the responsibility of Princeton agencies.

SANDS NAMED CHAIRMAN

Of Building Group. Edward Sands of the Sandean Construction Company has been elected permanent chairman of the newly-formed Building Industry Division of the Greater Princeton Chamber of Commerce and Civic Council.

Mr. Sands was elected at a meeting at the Nassau Inn of building contractors, building material suppliers and architects. The new division will work closely with the real estate division of the Chamber.

TOO MUCH TO READ?

New Film Will Help. "Ten Steps to Increased Reading Capacity," a film designed to help businessmen who have more "must" reading than they can handle, is now being distributed by the Industrial Education Film Library, Box 564 Princeton.

The 20-minute film explains the ten most effective techniques for improving the businessman's informational reading habits so that he can read faster and retain more. Prints are available through the firm for a pre-release price of $35. Deliveries will be made by June 15.

CONTRACT TO LAB

Navy Retains Stony Brook. A contract from the Naval Research Laboratory for development of a communications system has been awarded to Stony Brook Laboratories, 55 State Road.

The system will be designed to take the output of more than 60 manually operated machines and combine them into a single high-speed channel for communications with modern megacycle computers.

Stony Brook is now delivering to the Army's White Sands Missile Range a newly developed DC spectrum analyzer for use in the investigation of missile structures, and to the National Institutes of Health a physiological data logger developed to meet the requirement for a low-cost tool to aid medical research.

A Stony Brook device for sampling physiological parameters of flyers and astronauts was displayed by the Navy at the Aero Space Medical Association convention in Atlantic City early in April.

IVY RACE IN SIGHT

For Weary Lacrosse Team. The punishing pace which Princeton's lacrosse team sets for itself as a preliminary to the Ivy League race is almost at an end. Next Wednesday afternoon on Finney Field, the Orange and Black will begin defense of its title by entertaining Pennsylvania, which hasn't trimmed the Tigers in the sport in 30 years.

Before that, Ferris Thomsen's operatives will play host to Army Saturday at 2:30. There is a possibility that they will defeat the rugged, hard playing cadets but the odds are against them.

So far this season, Princeton has lost to Maryland, Johns Hopkins and Navy by lop-sided scores. If the Orange and Black duplicates last year's performance against Army, in which the West Point entry won by no more than, 7-4, it will be doing well.

These four, the toughest teams in the U.S., one of which almost inevitably wins the national championship, are always on the Princeton schedule. Although in occasional bright years during the past decade, the Tigers themselves picked off the national title, the last Princeton victory over one of this quartet was in 1959 when the Tigers topped Navy.

There is, of course, sound reasoning behind this suicide schedule. The preparation it provides has served as the springboard from which Thomsen's team have gone on to win five straight Ivy championships.

Sometimes there are cliffhangers involved—a couple of years ago, the runner-up lost a chance to catch Princeton only because it was involved in a tie, and the Tigers won the title by half a game. Last year, a narrow 8-0 triumph over Yale at New Haven proved decisive it will take a lot of doing to trim the Elis here on May 12, with Harvard also a possible bet to unseat Thomsen's entry, but the rugged April schedule will again be a valuable baptism of fire.

HE LIKES 'EM TOUGH: Ferris Thomsen's lacrosse teams always play the best in the nation in preparation for Ivy League action.

BALL TEAM SPLITS

Despite 11 Errors. After having broken even in its first two league games despite the 11 errors with which it was charged, Princeton's baseball team will face its third circuit opponent this Friday on Clarke Field when Dartmouth comes to town. Game-time will be 3 o'clock, with Manhattan here Saturday at 2:30 and C.C.N.Y. next Tuesday at 3:45.

The Tigers lost to Columbia, 8-3, on the victors' field last Thursday, making life miserable for themselves as they were debited with half a dozen errors and a near-record total of 16 strikeouts. A 2-0 lead was erased by a five-run sixth, with sophomore Gerry Skey the losing pitcher.

In 42-degree weather Saturday, the Tigers appeared to have Cornell beaten, 5-2, at the end of seven innings, but the visitors pushed across four runs in the next two rounds and it was not until the last of the 12th that Princeton skinned through, 7-6. Five of the losers' runs were unearned as the home team threw wildly and fielded badly.

The triumph turned the spotlight on a relief pitcher whose performance provides cheer for the future. Paul Lahti, a junior right-hander who worked only one inning last season, retired ten of the 11 batters he faced after taking over in the ninth with two away and the bases filled.

At bat, he made two hits, the second a rousing double that shattered the chalk on the left field foul line to chase in Blake Stafford with the winning run. Earlier, Stafford's two-out single in the ninth brought the Tigers even at 6-6 after they had frittered away the lead they had held since the first inning.

CREW TOPS RUTGERS

For First Win Since '58. Ability to break open a tight race at the end of the first mile Saturday gave Princeton its first victory in a crew race in four years. The Tigers pulled away from Rutgers in the last three-quarters of a mile to win by a shade under a length.

Strong crosswinds buffeted Carnegie's waters, with the Orange and Black oars rowing the smoother race and taking the Princeton shell across the finish line in 9:19.8. Earlier, the Tiger jayvees and second freshmen won, but the freshman race went to Rutgers.

Navy will be the crew's next opponent, at Annapolis Saturday, with the middles favored to win for the fourth year in a row. The 150-lb. oarsmen, who defeated Columbia last weekend, will also row on the Severn Saturday.

OTHER SPORTS

Track Meet With Rutgers. Palmer Stadium will be the site Saturday afternoon at 2 of a track meet with Rutgers. Columbia, which had been scheduled to play host to Princeton in New York last weekend, came here instead because of construction work at Baker Field and lost, 101 to 48.

Princeton's tennis team begins defense of its Eastern Association title, facing Dartmouth here Friday before taking on Cornell at Ithaca Saturday. Dave Smoyer, three-letterman (soccer, squash, tennis) whose home is in Princeton, will play for the Indians. Harry Kinnell's golfers will be in Cambridge Friday for a triangular match with Brown and Harvard.

vile batters to two hits, the Larries combined four walks, a fielder's choice, a passed ball, a triple and an error to defeat Princeton High School, 4-2, on their home diamond Saturday.

Coach Harry Zoll's team will try to break into the winner's circle Thursday against Trenton Catholic. Hamilton is on tap Tuesday afternoon; both games are away and will start at 3:30.

Against the Larries Saturday, Princeton High opened the scoring in the fourth inning. The visitors combined a single by starting pitcher Jim Quinn, an error by the Red and Black third baseman, a wild pitch, a walk, a sacrifice fly and a balk for two runs. Jimmy Case, sophomorec enterfielder for PHS, scored his team's second run and banged out two of its four hits.

The home team rebounded Jimmy Case, sophomore eenin the next inning. Quinn, who had breezed along for 4 2/3 innings without giving up a hit, developed a blister on his pitching hand and his control suffered. Four walks and a fielder's choice tied it up. The visitors went ahead by a run in the seventh and sewed it up in the eighth when Larrie pitcher Ken Kauffman tripled and rode home on an error.

Gregg Stett, in relief of Quinn, was charged with the loss and Tom Stemmle came on in the eighth for the losers. Veteran Ray Britton got the

Shell Named for Spaeth

A new shell, christened the "J. Duncan Spaeth," has been added to the "navy" maintained by Princeton University's crews. It made its debut victoriously Saturday when the Tiger 150-lb. oarsmen defeated Columbia on the Harlem River by half a length.

Often called "the father of Princeton rowing," Spaeth coached the sport here from 1910—three years after Carnegie Lake was created—until 1925. He produced a number of outstanding crews and is credited with playing a major share in the developing of the large-scale intercollegiate racing program staged each spring Saturday.

Blue and White's fourth hit. The victory was Lawrenceville's first after having played Trenton High to a 1-1 tie.

Faulty Drainage. Coach Zoll reported that he was well-pleased with the first-game performance, "considering we hadn't been on a ball diamond in two weeks." The source of Zoll's concern is a bome diamond that has faulty drainage. Heavy rains have left the field a perpetual quagmire. One result is that PHS has been forced to play all of its scheduled home games to date away, including Wednesday's BMI tilt.

"The way it looks, I don't expect the field will be ready for two weeks," said Zoll. "All we need is a break in the weather and a field to play on and we'll do all right." Meantime, the team is using the jayvee field for practice.

HAMILTON IS NEXT

For PHS Track Team. The Princeton High School track team will play host to Hamilton High next Wednesday. The varsity and junior varsity meet is scheduled to start at Harris Field at 3:30. Friday's dual meet against always-powerful Highland Park was postponed because of rain and has been rescheduled for May 7.

The Blue and White riodermen opened their season last week in fine fashion by defeating Steinert High School 79 2/3 to 37 1/3. Co-captains Tom Bogia and Joe Cox were double-winners in the 100 and 220 and shot and discus, respectively. PHS coach Jerry Groninger said that Bogia's winning times of 10.2 and 23 flat were probably the top marks in the meet.

Other winners were George Russo in the high and low hurdles; Bruce Baxter in the quarter-mile, John Bensinger in half, Henry Schmidt in the mile, Pete Weber, javelin, and Roger Slaybeek, high jump. The only first place not captured by the victors was the pole vault.

Duplicating the varsity in posting victories were the jayvee and freshman teams. The jayvees defeated the Steinert jayvees, 62½ to 54½, while the freshman won over their opponents by virtually the same margin, 63 to 54.

Dear TRAVELEX,

It wasn't until the chirping, squealing and blasting of Rome's taxis crashed on our ears did we realize that the horns in Paris had been silenced—another contrast!

Romans, in their beloved old city, at least, haven't changed much since the ancient time. The city seems to have been continually and gradually rebuilt piecemeal—completely ignoring the crumbling ruins of walls and buildings.

Stopped here in the "oldest hotel" in Rome. Hesitate to say who may have slept here—it would make George Washington sound like last week's guest.

The Spanish steps are beautiful, but everything is at the top and I was at the bottom. We got well acquainted as my tired legs will attest.

Rome weather in springtime is wonderful. A sandwich and coffee at Doney's al fresco (they have the sunny side of Via Veneto) was fun and is a great place for Americans to be with Americans — if that's what they go to Rome to do.

The New York Times, Herald Tribune and Daily American are continually hawked up and down the Via Veneto, too!

Sunday morning Pope John XXIII appeared at the window of the Vatican Palace. Quite a sight. It seems that all of Rome's native citizens are in the plaza to cheer and greet him.

The Alitalia Jet to New York was delightful — such polished and complete service makes the long journey seem short.

TIGERS BLANK RUTGERS

Scarlet Loses First. Another good pitching performance by sophomore Gerry Skey bolstered Princeton's baseball fortunes Tuesday as the Tigers shut out previously unbeaten Rutgers, 3 to 0. The Scarlet has won its first four.

Skey was rarely in trouble, yielding only six hits and a walk while fanning four and allowing only one runner to reach third. The victory was his second; a 12-1 triumph over NYU preceded an 8-3 loss to Columbia.

Princeton moved out to a 1-0 advantage in its first time at bat when leadoff hitter Don Weeden circled the bases on a walk, a passed ball, a fielder's choice and a sacrifice fly by Captain Jack Whitehouse. A bases-loaded single in the eighth by Mike Devine that chased in the final two runs made the last inning easy for the sophomore southpaw.

"PLAY BALL" TO SOUND

For YMCA Midget Leagues. The cry of "play ball" lies just ahead for the American and National League teams of the YMCA Midget Leagues. The new season will begin April 30.

The teams will be the same as in previous years, Commissioner Robert C Decker reported. In the American League are Hulit's Shoes, Yankees; Laidlaw and Company, Red Sox; Nassau Oil Company, Tigers; Princeton Kiwanis, Orioles; Nassau Savings and Loan, Athletics; and First National Bank, Indians. National League teams are: Princeton Rotary Club, Dodgers; Princeton Lions, Cardinals; Princeton University Store, Braves; Plainsboro Lions, Pirates; Houghton Real Estate, Red Legs; and Palmer Square, Giants.

Opening day contests will pit the Giants against the Braves at Princeton Country Day diamond, the Braves versus the Cardinals at Mercer Field, with the Pirates taking on the Red Legs at the YMCA diamond. Game time for all contests is 6 15.

Both the Giants and Yankees, last year's leaders, face stiff competition for the league crown this spring, according to Decker. The Giants, in particular, will be pressed by the Cardinals who have a new manager this year, Geoffrey Myers, university senior, and by the Red Legs, co-managed by Wilbert Brooks and Ernest Pignona.

HE IS THE HAPPIEST, BE HE KING OR PEASANT, who finds peace and contentment in his home. You'll find both in this 7 room "home on the hill" on a spacious 3 acre wooded and clear lot. Stone and aluminum siding make this house maintenance free and $15,900 makes it an excellent buy.

How many times have you dreamed of living in a home that is perfectly suited to your needs, and still be able to walk across your property line or across the street and be on a new 18 hole golf course, or be able to send your children to a supervised swimming pool only a stone's throw away. All this can be yours now if you are willing to spend from $4500 to $5500 for a lot on which to build. Your key to happiness is the phone number—359-5191—dial it now.

A beatnik living in a pad in New York City would trade his beard for this pad in the country. The two old brick fireplaces and hand hewn oak beams combine to make this renovated 200 year old, 5 room Colonial the most. The perfect pad for the young couple just starting out or the privacy seeking bachelor. And man, the price is way out at $13,500.

Early American farm house, needs paint; 4 bedrooms, 2 living rooms, dining room, parlor, kitchen; red barns in perfect condition now used to house thoroughbred horses, authentic windmill that really works, lends even more charm. 10 acres of ground with many, many evergreens and located in a Country Club area help make this an exceptional buy at $35,000.
